Cruelty to Animals proposes to build at once, Mr. Henry Bergh, Jr., President of the society. been impressed with the importance of having a hospital for the care and treatment, especially the surgical treatment, of animals, and to proide for unfortunate animals such care and at-ention as is now given to human beings, "When we get our hospital we shall have our ambulances ready, with trained horses, like those of the Fire Department, ready to rush out at the sound of a bell, and go to the relief of suffering animals in the streets. This will avoid the delays which at present are not only verations but demoralizing to those who witness the suffering of animals dying in the streets. At present, when animals are past saving it street. This is a horrid sight at best, and a very dangerous example to unthinking youths. as some boys are apt to imitate the process with dogs or cats in the back yard. The sensibilities of people are shocked by the present method, as we may be compelled to kill animals in front of schools or near private dwellings, where the tender feelings of ladies are shocked. When we get our new hospital we will take the poor animals expeditiously out of the streets to the stables, and if it becomes necessary to take their lives we will do it by electricity, which is far less painful.

"We expect to have some novel appliances in our new hospital. One of these will be a truck o rescue animals from excavations. At present when a horse tumbles down a sewer or a cellar it is very difficult to lift him up. We have a derrick now, but it is cumbersome and diffient when a horse tumbles down a sewer or a ceilar it is very difficult to lift him up. We have a derrick now, but it is cumbersome and difficult to meve and slow of operation. Our new life-saving truck will be quick of movement, strong, and adaptable. We shall be able to holst out a horse and start him off to the hospital in a liffy. If we have to kill him it will be done out of sight of the public and expeditiously. I have aiready received a letter from Mr. Edison, who says the idea of killing by electricity is practical, and I have also a letter from Mayor Hewitt. In which he promises to give what aid he can to expedite the substitution of some more prompt and less torturing method of killing dogs in the dog pound.

"It is a common thing now for dogs caught late in the season to be almost frozen to death in the drowning process at the dog pound. When our new hospital is finished we can kill the dogs quickly, and keep them out of sight and put them to no unnecessary pain. It has been proposed to kill dogs by an apparatus which asphyxiates them with carbonic oxid gas. I am satisfied that that would be an expeditious and destructive agent.

"The main work of our society has hitherto been done in the direction of punishing those who have inflicted pain unon dumb animals. This will be somewhat of a new departure in the way of doing something for the animals themselves. We have had in mind the establishment of some more painless method of catching dogs in the public streets. At present the dog catchers set a terrible example of brutality in the heartless way in which they seize dogs and huddle them into a cart and off to the peund. Such doings are bad examples for children. It would be better to have a vehicle with separate compartments for the dogs, and the dog catcher, instead of seizing a dor by the leg and throwing him in a heap, could be provided with a net, so as to seize his prey without inflicting unnecessary pain.

"The lower floor of our new hospital will probably be devoted to the storage of the ambulanc ment. It is intended to make the hospital free except in such cases as are obviously not proper for free treatment. Many persons who are able and willing to pay will use the new hospital. Most of the cases treated will be surgical. No contagious diseases will be received. Horses with scarlet fever or the glanders cannot be treated in our hospital. The danger from contagion would be too great.

"The expense of litting up such an establishment would be probably from $55,000 to $70.000, to secure a male accommodations. The society has already voted $35,000 to start with. We didnot vote more because we do not wish to cripple our society or to take away energies from its ordinary work. It would be better to start a building to cover two city lots. If we cannot pie our society or to take away energies from its ordinary work. It would be better to start a building to cover two city lots. If we cannot do that, we shall start with one. We are going right ahead, and we expect to have our hospital started within a year and in partial operation.

"We are not begging for money. We have no collector. The Westminster Kennel Club took hold of the idea a year ago and put away the receipts of one day for the purpose, amounting to $1.295.25. Another friend gave $100. Possibly when more publicity is given there will be others to volunteer, but in any event the society which has begun the work will carry it on. There are a great many valuable animals in New York, and the hospital may be found useful to many of them.

"It is not intended to have the hospital take the place of the establishments of a similar kind already in the hands of veterinary surgeons. It will be an emersency hospi al, and useful for many animals who may be treated elsewhere afterward, or whose treatment may be paid for the yowners who are able to may be paid for the vowners who are able to may geons. It will be an emergency hospi al, and useful for many animals who may be treated elsewhere afterward, or whose treatment may be paid for by owners who are able to pay. Some idea of the necessity for such an hospital may be gathered from the fact that during the past year there were destroyed by this society 2.546 animals whose recovery was not believed to be possible. There were 1.202 animals enloroformed who were disabled past recovery. There were 522 disabled horses removed from the streets. Many of these cases would have been taken to such a hospital as we propose to have now. There is not at present in existence any hospital such as we propose to build. They have in connection with our Philadelphia branch what they call a dog shelter.

"It would be well if we could get our hospital next to the main office. But we would not put it anywhere to be a nuisance to human beings. We shall, therefore, select a site which will be least objectionable."

A STRANGE BURGLARY. Farmer Peters Tries to Steal the Boof from

Over his Neighbor's Hend. NEWPORT, Neb., May 8 .- John Peters, a farmer living three miles from Newport, was arrested last night. All the farm houses in this section are built of sod with shingle roofs. Last night about 11% o'clock Henry Winkleman, a homesteader, was awakened by a noise on the roof, and, looking up, saw that about half of it was gone. Greatly puzzled to know whether his house had been struck by the edge of a passing tornado, he hurried out, just in time to passing tornado, he hurried out, just in time to see the missing section of his roof on a wagon disappearing aron dia curve in the road.

Securing his rifle, he waited. Presently the wagon came in sight again, and its occupant, a neighboring homesteader named John Peters, drove to within a few yards of the house, and stopped. He then approached on foot, carefully removed another section of the roof, and was carrying it to the wagon, when Winkleman haited him, and, with the assistance of his gun, drove him to Newport and delivered him to the constable. Peters said he had just completed the walls of a sod shanty, and, being unable to buy the lumber for a roof, was tempted to appropriate his neighbor's.

The Aldermen to a Lady's Rescue, President Forster of the Board of Aldermen came down from his high seat yesterday to get at one of Mayor Hewitt's vetors. The veto was directed against a resolution giving permission to Louis. Funchers to erect a drinking fountain in Park avenue near Thirty seventh a drinking foliation in Fark avenue near Thirty seventh street. The Mayor objected that the fountain would be both in the way, and unnecessary. By, Forster moved the passage of the resolution over the veto, saving that the fountain was an ornamental one, designed for the use of man an beast, to be erected by a charitable lady at an expense to herself of $3.000 and use hing to the City. The Aldermen everyole the veto. Mr. Forster would not tell the name of the lady. The name in the precipition is that of the artist.

The Five Points Mission Sewing School. The sewing school of the Five Points Mission was closed for this season yesterday. In the afternoon the children were gathered in the schoo-room and treated to see cream and cake. The distribution of 122 created to be cream and case. In the delivation of 122, class prizes for regular attendance was followed by an award of st prizes for proficiency in sewing. Only two boys took prizes in sewing. Our many larve were successful in the class prizes. The prizes consisted of dollar and workbackets for the girls and necktice and blocks for the boxs. There were 218 pupils in the school during the year, and the average daily attendance was 173. The superintendent is Mrs. 11. B. Skittmore.

The Letter of the Law.

A curious instance of compliance with the of the law may be seen in many little cigar shops in the city. The law requires that the cigar factors shall be separate and distinct from the shop where shall be separate and distinct from the shop where ci-gars are sold. In these shops the factory is really in the same room with the accrosm, but it is fenced off by partitions. These partitions however, have hig doors and big windows and when the doors and windows are open the separation of factory and salesroom is tech-pical, and by no means actual. But the etter of the law iscompiled with, and the man who works in the factory can easily run out to efficiency in the shop.

RANGED TOGETHER.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8 .- David W., Vincent and Robert G. Hall, murderers, were hanged in Moyamensing prison this morning at 10:18. Both of the men slept well from midnight until 5 o'clock this morning, and both ate heartily of a dainty breakfast. The remaining hours of their lives were spent in devotional exercises. which were participated in earnestly by Hall, and indifferently by Vincent.

At 10:05 e'clock the procession to the scaffold was formed, and both marched to their doom with a firm and steady step. When the guilows was reached the Rev. Father Isoleri of the Italian Catholic Church pronounced the last rites of the church upon Vincent, and the Rev. Mr. Smiley of the Presbyterian Church for Hall. As the latter concluded his supplica-tion, Hall, in a strong and clear voice, prayed ing that it had missed fire.

The body was searched at the Fifth street and Jesus forgive ms. Into tay bands in sweemant myself. Amen!

Just as soon as Hall had finished his prayer the trap was sprung and both were launched into eternity. The bodies were allowed to hand until 132, when they were cut down, and ceal in each case was found to have been. ALL THE EUREKA'S CREW SAFE. Capt. Quick's Wife Greets him Joyfully-

The Morgan line steamship Eureka, from New York for New Orleans, was sunk by her cellision with the Benison, off the Capes, on Sunday, but her crew are all safe and got back to New York last night. They were landed at Philadelphia yesterday by the steamship Dessong, the obelisk carrier, which had taken them from the brig Caroline Gray. The Gray found them in the Eureka's boats at 6 P. M. on Sunday, or five hours after the collision.

They got to Jersey City at 6 P. M. The wife of Capt. Robert B. Quick was at the train to meet him, a joyful woman.

"The Lampasas and another steamer which bow, five miles off, when the fog came down on us Sunday noon." Capt. Quick said to a reporter of THE SUN. "We kept a bright lookout, blew the whistle every minute, and slackened porter of The Sun. "We kept a bright lookout, blew the whistle every minute, and slackened speed. At 12:28 we heard a whistle on our starboard bow, very hear. I whistled twice, meaning that I would go to the left. She whistled twice, too, and we starboarded our helm. The Eureka fell off from south by west to south by east, and then, in less than three minutes from the first whistle, she came at us at right angies. We got the helm to port, but it was too late. She cut a breach twenty feet wide into our middle compartment, and the firest were swamped. Chief Engineer Ritchle got on deck and hailed the other boat to stand by us, but she forged by and was lost in the fog. One boat was stove. We got into the other three in a hurry, thirty-nine of us, and fifteen minutes later, or thirty minutes after the collision, the Eureka sank. About fifteen minutes later the fog lifted so that we saw the ship upright on the bottom, with all four masts out of the water. We could soon distinguish the Benison about seven miles off, bearing west by south, and shortly after we sighted another steamer by her. We pulled for them as hard as we could, and we made three to four miles an hour, having in our boat six cars. After two hours we had got so close that we felt sure of being taken on board, but, to our dismay, we saw them steam away. We were not more than 1½ miles from them at the time. We raised the boat's mast and shook out the sail as a signal, but they didn't see us. Then we sighted a brig and pulled for her and reached her at 6 P. M., pretty hungry and tired out. It was the Caroline Gray, Cant, Pilsbury, from Cuba for Philadelphia. We were taken aboard, and the Capiain told us he had seen us over an hour. So he kept a better lookout than the steamers. We remained on the brig until 2 P. M. the next day, when the Dessong, Capt, Hows, took us off. All hands lost their effects, not even saving any clothing except what they stood in."

ESCAPE OF AN AGED MURDERER.

A Condemned Mas Digs His Way Through

& Stone Wall. LEBANON, Pa., May 8 .- William Showers, under sentence of death for the murder of his two grandchildren, escaped from the jall here last night. He dug a hole through the solid last night. He dug a hole through the solid stone wall and lowered himself from the opening with a rope made from pieces of a blanket. Showers is seventy years old, and how he escaped detection in the fown, after his escape from prison, is a great mystery, as the jail is in the heart of the city. The aged prisoner must have been digging at the wall for some time past. He left behind him two letters, one addressed to his counsel and the other bidding deflance to the people who have threatened to lynch him.

Mr. Train's Marriage License.

LOUISVILLE May 8 .- In looking over church papers yesterday Dr. Perkins, rector of St. Paul's, found a number of marriage licenses which had never been returned to the County Clerk for record. Among others were those of George Francis Train and Henrietta W. Davis. George D. Prentice gave the bride away.

Bendly Work of an Exploding Boller. MANCHESTER, N. H., May 8.-The boiler exploded this merning at Hodge's sash and blind shep on South Eim street. Frank F. Thompson engineer and Sreman kindled the tire under the boller, which was of No horse power. The safety valve was supposed to blew off at 30 pounds, and but 40 pounds showed on the steam gavge when Thompson left the room to dil the oil came. A moment later the explosion came. William it Tyler and Harvey D. Emery, employees were burled 150 feet and killed, their todies being terribly mangled. The boiler house, engine house, and dry house, all of brick, were completely demotished. Thompson, the engineer, was found beneath the ruins of the engine house, but is not fatially injured. The main shop was riddled with brick and sections of iron and the chimney torn down. One section of the boiler, weighing two tons was thrown 300 feet, carrying away the corners of two dweiling houses on Authur street, badly injuring Mrs. James Mahoney and tearing away the whole front of her room. Two other sections were blown 500 feet, but did no apecial damas. Irving R. Hadley was struck by a fring brick but was not fatally hurt. The loss to the shop is $5,000 to $10,000. 100 horse power. WHO KILLED HU LIEN PONG? A SUSPICION THAT HE WAS MURDERED

Policemen, Attracted by a Pistel Shot, Find the Dead Chinamau in the Street With a Revo ver on His Breast-Four Arrests. Policeman Fred Schmitt and Henry Flegenheimer, the wine merchant, who lives at 433 Fifth street, were standing at Sixth street and Avenue A a little after 2 o'clock yesterday morning, when they heard a pistol shot. Police-man Peter Reilly, while patrolling in East Eighth street, had heard the shot, too. In front of 119 East Seventh street, near First avenue. they found the body of a dead Chinaman. He was dressed in garments of American fashion. There was a bul'et hole in his right temple and a British buildog pistol lay upon his breast. It was of 38-calibre and four of the six chambers were empty. There was an empty shell in the fifth chamber, and the cartridge in the sixth chamber bore the mark of the hammer, showing that it had missed fire.

The body was searched at the Fifth street than 700 strong in this city, while Hu could summon but half a dozen laundrymen to his defence. Yee Chen said that Hu Lien Pong had no pistol.

Yee Chen went to the police station in Fifth streat with The Sun's Chinese reporter, and a policeman took him to the undertaker's in Fourth street, where he identified the body of his cousin. Thence he went with the reporter to the laundrygin Sixth street. There they found the shutters up and Hu Lien Pong'ssign for his laundry, which he called "Sam Lee." down. In the laundry they found Moy iu, a member of the rival firm of the Quong Ou laundry, in possession. The police arrested him and cut him down as Wing Lee on the station house biotter. All of the furniture of the laundry had been carted away, and the place was bare. Yee Chen wanted to know what had become of his cousin's property, and Moy Yu said he didn't know, but that he had just rented the laundry for the Quong On Company. The landlord of the building. Henry Hillmever, told the reporter that Quong On had rented the laundry a month ago, and that he didn't know that Hu Lien Pong had been there. In fact, he said the Chinamen all looked alike to him. A son of Mrs. Caroline Katz, the owner of the building, said that Hu Lien Pong had shown him on Monday a revolver like that found upon his bedy.

When Moy Yu was arrested two pawn tickets wars lound, one for a diamond ring pledged for $30 yesterday and the other for a gold ring and chain pledged for $20 on Friday last. The police also arrested three men in the rival Quong On laundry. They were recorded as Leon Jung, aged 21, formerly of Pittsburgh: Ah Shon, aged 40, and Ah Lee of 102 Avenue B. Peputy Sheriff Tom Lee told Undertaker Paimer that he would pay the expenses of the funeral. He said to a reporter of The Sun that he thought it impossible for the dead Chinaman to have shot himself, and then placed the revolver upon his chest where it was found. He suspected foul play. Tom Lee cross-examined the Chinamen who were locked up in the police station, but they denied The Pack Sd. 117

Grath-Wheat futures were rather stronger, on more favorable foreign advices with the speculation showing feet the control of the fered for weeks from a practical suspension of its business on account of the strike. The effect of low rates upon the earnings of the company is very clearly indicated by the show-ing of its dependent yet controlling company, company is very clearly indicated by the showing of its dependent yet controlling company, the C.. B. and Nortehrn. Each successive monthly report of this piratical concern furnishes additionol proof that there was never any legitimate reason for its existence. These reports also show concusively that the road is, as The Sun has indicated all along, practically bankrunt, and is therefore, if for no other reason, entitled to no credit whatever. The figures printed below show what material progress has been made toward a receivership, an event which in this case seems most desirable, since it is not possible that any court would permit such gross abuse of a property as the managers of the C. B. and Northern have been guilty of.

The dividend upon Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, which ought in the ordinary course of events to be declared about the middle of this month, was sold upon the Stock Exchange today for 1% cent. This transaction, together with reports that the dividend might be passed, helped to depress prices in the last hour. Some time after the close or business it was learned that the company had declared a dividend of 1 % cent., or one-half of the smount which it has paid quarterly since 1864, with the exception of 1872, when 5 % cent, was paid. Although Chicago, Burlington and Quincy does not occupy an important position in the market, the sentimental effect of the reduction is not pleasing. It probably has been discounted to an extent since the traffic returns of the company, together with its other misfortunes, have forestadowed this result for some time. This reduction leaves the Chicago and Alton Company in the unique position of being the only railroad west of the Alicahanies paying 8 % cent.

The large offerings of bonds to the Government argued the hoose that the Secretary The large offerings of bonds to the Government aroused the hope that the Secretary would advance the figures at which he has been buying bonds. This hope proved delusive, however, and the disappointment together with the other influences referred to, caused a sharp decline at the close. In this
